The Recipients of the Prizes.

How the Teutons Enjoyed Themselves

The End of the Festival.

The great German musical festival which has been the leading attraction of our city for nearly a week past has closed, and by the time that this is in print a large number of the participants will be on their homeward journey. This is well, perhaps, for they have exerted themselves so greatly in their efforts at amusement that one not of Teutonic birth or ancestry would judge that they needed a whole week of absolute rest, before they would be able to bestow a moment's thought upon either the cares or moment's thought upon either the cares or pleasures of this life.

The pageant which our citizens witnessed yesterday morning was one which will not soon be forgotten. In point of numbers, the procession was large, but not formidable, and Philadelphia has frequently been the scene of more an bitious parades. But there was one feature of the affair which has been heretofore nerivalled. We allude to the great number of flags and ensigns which were carried in the lipe. The procession was literally "an army flags and ensigns which were carried in the line. The procession was literally "an army with banners." The flags consisted of the national standards of the United States and the North German Confederation, and many of them were of the largest size. The banners were as varied in design and execution as they were plentiful in point of numbers. Each so clety represented in the procession carried one or more elaborately decorated ensigns, bearing its name and divers mottoes by way of inscription, while representations of music, its patron gods and goddesses, and the instruments from which it is evoked, all wrought in silk of the richest and most tasteful colors, and in the highest style of the embroiderer's art, greeted the eye on every hand. Another attractive highest style of the embroiderer's art, greeted the eye on every hand. Another attractive feature of these numberless flags and banners was the manner in which they were all decorated with dezzling wreaths of natural and artificial flowers. The immense concourse of people of all classes which filled the streets at the busiest hours of the day, in order to obtain a view of the procession, was a fitting tribute to the spiendor with which it was gotten up,

The Recipients of the Prizes. The grand pionic at Engel & Wolf's Farm and the washington Retreat has already been de-scribed in less columns up to the time of the distribution of the prizes. At the appointed hour, of which timely warning was given by a bour, of which timely warning was given by a rambling discharge of cannon, the multitude dropped their sports for the time, and repaired in taste to the neighborhood of the hexagonal pagoda in which the Honorary Committee, the officers and orators of the Festival, and the prize judges were comfortably established.

The scene which was then presented defies description.

The number of people present on has been variously estimated at from thirty to sixty thousand, and the mere figures, taken at the lowest, are sufficient to indicate the character of the spectacle. The first thing in order was the chanting by this immense multitude of the "Star-Spangled Banner." Then came the addresses, in English, by Charles Buckwalter, E.q., followed by the singing of Mendelssohu's grand chorus, "The Hunter's Fareweil" Mr. F. Schuenemau Pott was then introduced and addressed the gathering in the language of their Fatherland, after which the award of the prizes was announced, and the tropnies of successful song delivered to from thirty to sixty thousand, and the mere and the trophies of successful song delivered to the recipients.

The Fifth Prize was awarded to the Lieder-kranz of Baltimore, of which Mr. Charles Lenschan is Director, Mr. F. Woestman is President, and Mr. J. Schoman is Secretary. It has 51 members.

i members.

Honorable mention was also made by the Judges of the manner in which the Germania Mænnerchor of Baltimore, the Sengerbund of Buffalo, and the Sængerbund of Brooklyn acquitted themselves.

The Liederkranz, of New York, which secured the first prize, was organized in the year 1847. At the first general Sangerfest, held in Philadelphia in July, 1850, this society received the first prize. At another musical contest held in Buffalo, New York, in 1856, it was again awarded a prize. At another contest, held in Louisville. a prize. At another contest, held in Louisville, Kentucky, in July, 1866, it was awarded the second prize, consisting of an ivory goblet. This the society refused to accept, whereupon the citizens presented it with a handsome Laurel Wreath in sliver.

Wreath in silver.

The Hoboken Quartette Club, to whom the second prize was awarded yesterday, has never before entered the musical lists.

The Teutonia Mannerchor, of New York, the recipient of the third prize, was organized in 1852, and about six years ago, in a musical tournament at Buffalo, carried off the first prize.

The recipients of the fourth and fifth prizes—the Quartette Club of New York and the Leider-terans of Baltimore—were yesterday awarded the Quartette Club of New York and the Leider-hrana of Baltimore—were yesterday awarded prizes for the first time since their organization. It was generally conceded that the distribu-tion of the prizes by the judges had been char-acterized by sound judgment and impartiality; and as each Society advanced to receive its gnerited reward, it was warmly greeted by the friends and admirers, whose name and number was legion. On receiving the prizes, the leader of each Society made a short address in German, expressing the thanks of his Club for the kindness manifested to them during their stay in Philadelphia, and a determination to press on to still greater success in the noble accomplishment of singing.

After these ceremonies were over, the combined societies sang "Ecoe Quam Bonum"—"Behold how good a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." After which the muititude returned to the enjoyments of the day.

The Mayor's Reception at the Piente. The hearty welcome extend d by his Honor Mayor McMichael to the "deserving visitors" appears to have made an indelible impression upon their hearts. His popularity with "the German element" has reached the maximum point. On arriving at the picnic grounds, shortly after the delivery of the addresses, his shortly after the delivery of the addresses, his Honor was fortunately recognized and at once surrounded by a boisterous multitude. It is barely possible that our municipal dignity was invaded in the treatment to which he was then subjected, for the enthusiastic Teutons seemed to regard him as one of the portly Burgomasters of their Fatherland, who was accustomed to their eccentric ways. With all the assistance that could be prought to bear it was impossible to which him brought to bear, it was impossible to whiri him around fast enough to afford all the spectators a glance at his smiling countenance. Then those monstrous horns which the Teutons carry under their arms on such occasion—horns, emphatically, and in a double sense—were presented; and not until be had quaffed the frothy contents of each and every one of them were the Tentons satisfied that his thirst was fully quenched.

A representative of many of the societies then pinned upon his coat a gold badge of their respective associations. Decorated thus, after the fashion of an Austrian Archduke, he was escorted to the Temple of the Honorary Committee, and welcomed in a complimentary manner by the President of the Liederkranz, of New York.

New York. His Honor responded in bis usual happy vein, after which General Patterson, one of the Honorary Marshals, was introduced. In a few remarks he expressed his thanks for the honor done him, and complimented the Germans upon the good feeling which they manifested towards each other. The veteran soldier confessed that he had previously entertained a dis-like towards them, but acknowledged that this Saengerfest had wrought an entire change in Saengerfest had wrought an entire change in his sentiments.

Thus passed a memorable day in the history of the German population of Philadeiphia and the whole country. Singing, parading, and general joility continued until about 7 o'slock in the evening, when the pionic was brought to a close, and the happy but somewhat wearied participants made their way back to the city as best they could. This was no easy task, for every available means of locomotion was crowded to overflowing. As an evidence of the sobriety and moderation which characterized the affair from beginning to end, it may be stated that the only serious duty performed by the three hundred policemen on the ground was the arrest of four persons! When a multi-tude to the number of fifty thousand is gathered on such an occasion, and good order preered on such an occasion, and good order pre-served to such an extreme degree without the interference of the authorities, the fact deserves to be recorded.

The City Last Evening, especially those portions of It in which the German element is numer, us, was another scene of boisterous but orderly jolilty. Third street, above Callowhill, and the lower portion of the last-named thoroughfare, were the centres of attraction. The sidewalks were filled with a great crowd of promenaders, which, added to the transparencies, banners, and the other decorations displayed in almost continuous succession, imparted to them an animated and attractive appearance. The concert saloous and music gardens were a liftled to their utmost capacity, the pleasure-seekers tempering their beer and pretzels with strains of martial music and the comicalities of variegated mimics.

During the evening, a large concourse of people was gathered in the neighborhood of Dr. Jansen's Skating Park, at the corner of Fif-teenth and Wallace teenth and Wallace streets, to witness an attractive display of fireworks, which came off under the superintendence of Professor Jackson. The entertainment was varied by a pyrorechnic display, which was not included in the Professor's programme. About half-past 8 o'clock a rocket alighted upon the roof of a stable in a lumber-yard directly to the north of

This roof was in a very defective condition, there being several large holes in it, so that the shell of the rocket fell through and set on fire the hay which was in the loft. Soon the whole building was in flames, and in a short time the structure was burned to the ground. Surrounding the stable on all sides were large piles of lumber.

These soon ignited from the falling sparks, the immense amount of lumber stored in the yard would have been consumed. As it was, about a dozen piles of boards were destroyed, involving a loss of $2500. In the stable a horse, valued at $300, was burned to a crisp, and a cart worth $90, as well as several sets of harness and a saddle, were destroyed.

This property belonged to several parties, Messrs, Naylor & Co. are the severest sufferers, Their loss is placed at $3000, which is partially insured in the Attna, of Hartford, Messrs, Hoffman, & Brid loss should see the property of the prop man & Buhl lose about $200, upon which there is no insurance, Messrs. Staple & Campbell lose about $200; fully insured in the Spring

Such are the facts as developed by the investigations of the Fire Marshal thus far. But Professor Jackson stoutly denies that the fire originated in the manner described. It is to be hoped, however, that there will be no more pyrotechnical displays in that locality, as the large amount of lumber in the neighborhood is involved in great danger, as well as the property and lives of the residents.

The Singers Going Home. Some of the participating societies of the Sangerfest started for their homes last evening, and a number of others took their departure this morning. The Liederkranz of New York will depart at twelve o'clock to-night. During the day several societies will visit Gloucester Point, N. J., on an excursion.

ARREST OF INCENDIARIES .- Yesterday an ac-ARREST OF INCENDIARIES.—Iesterday an account was given in THE EVENING TELEGRAPH of the burning of a stable in William street, below Trenton avenue, belonging to George Sears and Augustus Fleckeustine, which involved a loss of $100, including the value of two horses, which were burned to death. Fire Marshal Blackburn, in investigating the cause, was of the opinion that it was the work of de-Marshal Blackburn, in investigating the cause, was of the opinion that it was the work of design. A boy named Charles Bach was observed to leave the building a short time previous to the discovery of the fire. He was arrested by a patrolman, and on being interrogated regarding the fire, acknowledged that he applied the torch, a boy named Charles Strewer having given him the matches.

On being asked what possessed them to do it, he said "they wanted to see the engines squirt." Search was made for Strower, and he was found

SEASIDE RECREATIONS .- The season at Atlantie City is now fairly inaugurated, most of the hotels at that popular and pleasant resort being well filled with permanent guests, and having a good run of transient visitors. To add to the ordinary attractions of the place, a grand hop will be given on Saturday evening next at the Surf House, and it is expected that the occasion, being the first of the season, will be one of hearty enjoyment and decided success. The preparations thus far made lead to this conclusion, and a goodly gathering in point of numbers will assuredly not be lacking, as the trains of Saturday will carry down to the seaside numbers who do not care a fig for a salt-water bath in the daytime, unless they can follow it up by a whirl in the dance in the evening. The music will be furnished by Carneross & Dixey's full and efficient orchestra, which is an established institution at the surf House for the season. tie City is now fairly inaugurated, most of the

THE RIOT.—The leading spirits in the late firemen's riot and attack on the Hope Engine Company's quarters, of whom Aiderman William McMullen and Councilman Barnes were chefs de parti, are all likely to come within the grasp of the law. DEMISH OF A WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN,-Yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at his residence in West Philadelphia, John L. Goddard de-parted this life, after a lingering illness. For several months past he has been suffering with paralysis, which has incapacitated him from attending to any of his business interests, but his sudden prostration and death were utterly unexpected. He was born in this city fifty-fou years ago, and has always made it his home.
In time past he was connected with the Bank of the United States, and was sent to Europe in

He has held many places of henor and trust in the public institutions in this community, and his name has become universally known because of his high position, that of Grand Master of the Grand Masonic Lodge of the State of Fonnsylvania. He became a Mason about twenty years ago, and after having served in all the chairs of his own Lodge, passed by unanimous election through all the offices of the Grand Lodge, and had at the time of his death served six months of his first term as Grand Master. His sudden departure has sorrowed many a heart, and stricken with grief mourners, relatives, and friends. The juneral will take place at his late residence in West Philadelphia, at 5 o'clock precisely, Saturday afternoon. The officers and members of the Grand Lodge will attend the Iuneral in a body.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS—Judge Peirce.—William B. Mann, District attorney: T. B. Dwight, Assistant District Attorney.—That there is a serious defect in the new Court room has been fully proven during this week, for it has been with the greatest difficulty that persons addressing either the Court or jury could be heard. Even the Judge, who laquite near the witness stand, has been heard several simes within the last few days to say that he did not hear one-third of the evidence given in any of the cases. But the evil might be and should be, in some degree, remedied by the officers of the Court, of whom there is a sufficient number.

The ciler of the Court repeatedly, through the day, cries "slience," and calls upon the officers to prevent conversation, and pressive order throu hout the room. But all to no avail, for persons, members of the bar and others, carry on couversations, laugh, and mand up lesside of the bur, making a scene not becoming a court of justice; and yet officers will look on and say nothing. Mr. Dare, the crier, is supported in his realous efforts to presserve the quiet and order necessary by several of the officers, who know and endeavor to perform their dury; but the majority are most supremely indifferent, and the efforts of so small a minerity are of con-equence futile. It is slacerely to be hoped that the se officers who have intherio been remiss will, without further aciny, take it upon themselves to correct this evil.

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. A. J. Fisch, charged with keeping a bawdy house, before resorted, the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. The Court imposed the well-merited sentence of a fine of $1000, and imprisonment in County Frison for two years.

Thez Lane, colored, was charged with assault and battery upon Caroline La Count, colored. The evidence upon the part of the Commonwealth was, that the prosecutrix was a schoolmistress, and the defendant's son was one of her pupils, and a very bad boy. One day it was found absolutely necessary to correct this boy, and while the prosecutrix was chastising him with a ratten, the defendance of the school-room, and made a most furious attack upon her.

The defense denied that the defendant struck the school-mistress, and alleged that the only violence inflicted upon her was the resistance of the boy, who was smarting under the blows of the rattan. Verdict guilty, with a recommendation to the mercy of the court. She was ordered to pay a fine of $5 and the costs.

Lohn Rovers was convicted of a charge of open court. She was ordered to pay a fine of $5 and the costs.

John Rovers was convicted of a charge of open lewdness, in exposing his person before respectable women and children in Murray's place on the 4th of this month.

Bridget Donahue was charged with assault and battery upon Mrs. Quinn. There was an ill feeling between the parties, and the defendant, on meeting Mrs. Quinn, took eccasion to give expression to her part of it by calling her pet names, and when Mrs. Quinn objected to her English she carried it further by striking her. Verdict, guilty.

This prosecution was not instituted by Mrs. Quinn, but by a man whose window was broken in the affray. Albert Childs was charged with malicious mischief, in breaking the door lock belonging to William Gorman. It was alleged that the delendant rented rooms from the prosecutor and was negligent in the payment of his rent, in comequence of which there was bad feeling between them: and several ulcuta ago he burst open the door of Gorman's room and threatened to take his lite.

The defense alleged that the defendent did not go near Gorman's room on the night in question; and that the lock was broken of some five months prior to the time set forth by the prosecution. Verdict, not guilty.

George Kramer was charged with malicious mis-guilty.

George Kramer was charged with malicious mischlef in tearing the dress of Elizabeth Kemmerly. The evidence was that be became angry at Mrs. Kemmerly, and catching hold of the sieeve of her dress, tore it off. This was an assault and battery, but not malicious injury, for the defendant evidently intended to do the prosecutrix violence, but had no malicious design towards the dress. Verdict, not guilty.

malicious design towards the dress. Verdict, not guilty.

Jacob Vorer was acquitted of a charge of malicious mischief. The prosecutor d'd not appear, and the bill was submitted without evidence.

John Wrigs was acquitted of a charge of adultery, the only witness in the case was the hosband of the woman with whom the criminal latercourse was said to have been had; and as the law will not allow the hosband to testify in such a case, the bill was submitted by the District Attorney, without swidence, because he had none.

William Sturky, a little colored boy, was charged with the larceny of $120, belonging to Daniel Tolan. The evidence was that Tolan left his money in his vest, which was hanging on a cart. As soon as he turned his back, the defendant took the money out and ran way. He was agrested shortly afterwards at the Vine street wharf, and $84 of the money was recovered. He acknowledged having taken the money, and told how he had disposed of part of it. Verdict, suity.

and told how he had disposed of part of it. Verdict. guilty.

Nicholas Shromer and William Crow were charged with maliciously killing a cow. It was shown that the cow died from the effects of the water it drank and the grass it eat in a certain pasture, and that the boys had turned het into this pasture. Though the cow came to her death in consequence of eating and drinking in this field, and this was the consequence of being turned into this pasture by the defendants, yet there was no evidence of malice, and hence the jury acquitted.

James Brown and Edward Roach were charged with assault and battery with intent to kill John Manrer. The prosecutor, who keeps a tavern at the northeast corner of Fifth and Callowbil streets, testified that on the night of June 20th, as he was standing in Callowhill street, the are Fifth, two womes, going from the Atlantic Garden, passed him: and after them the two defendants came; the defendant Roach came up and knocked him down, and Brown pulled a knife and stabbed him in the breast: he was able to identify them by their dress and appearance. On trial.

Washington, July 18.—The House Joint resolution authorizing a special examination for the admussion of Maurice Rice Evans to the Naval Academy was taken up on metion of Mr. Conkiln, and passed.

Mr. Ramsey (Minn.) introduced a joint resolution authorizing the extension of the Mail Steamship Service between the United States and China. Referred to the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads.

Mr. Chandler (Mich.) calted up the resolution of the Maximilian duorse of October. 1845.

Mr. Chandler (Mich.) calted up the resolution of the Maximilian duorse of October. 1845.

how many Mexican soldlers and officers were executed under it, etc. It was agreed to.

Mr. Wilson (Mass.) introduced the following joint resolution expressive of the sense of the American people towards the Republic of Mexico.

Resolved, By the Senses and House of Repressivatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled. That the Congress of the United States, hereby express to the Republican patriots of the Republic of Mexico, their admiration for the long, portificial, and horocatrugale of their people to maintain the integrity of the country, and the republican form of its stovernment and institutions, their mineratulations for the signal triumpo they have gained over forcien influence and domestic treachery, and toelr earnest hope that their victory will consolidate and strengthen the Republic establish and confirm returning the Republic hostile indian tribes by the appointment of a commission consisting of Generals Sherman, Hancock, Augur, and Harmy, and Mexica.

Mr. Henderson (Mo.) called up the bill to establish peace with certain bostile Indian tribes by the appointment of a commission consisting of Generals Sherman, Hancock, Augur, and Harmy, and Mexica.

Mr. Ross (Kansas) offered an amendment authorizing the General of the army to accept the sorvices.

to select reservations upon which to locate certain tribes.

Mr. Ross (Kacsas) offered an amendment authorizing the General of the army to accept the services of volunteers, not exceeding 4000 in number, from the States of Kacsas and Nebraska and the Territories, to aid in suppressing Indian hos filties, the sald volunteers to be pisced on the same footing as to pay, subsistence, ect., as regular troops.

Mr. Davis (Ky) moved to strike; ut the General of the army and insert the President in the first line of the amendment.

Mr. Howard (Mich.) hoped that this amendment would not be agreed to. The President has entirely neglected to give the least attention to the border difficulties; instead of attending to such matters, he and a portion of his Cabinet had been visiting Boston and Raleigh, making political speeches.

Mr. Fessenden (Me.) regarded the remarks of Mr. Howard as a reflection, though perhaps unlikentional upon the conduct of the secretary of War. It could not be expected that the President would give his personal attention to such matters. He believed the secretary of War had given all the attention that was necessary to this subject. In his judgment Congress was going a little too far in committing to the military matters which belong properly to the War Devartment.

Mr. Howard disclaimed any intention of reflecting military matters which belong properly to the War Detartment.

Mr. Howard disclaimed any intention of reflecting upon the Secretary of War. He had no doubt that officer had done his whole duty. He blamed the President and him alone.

Mr. Ross sa d without his amendment the bill would afford little protection to the people of his section.

Mr. Davis modified his amendment so as to authorize the Secretary of War, under the authority of the President, to accept the troops. As thus modified it was accepted by Mr. Ross.

Mr. Cole (Conn.) regarded the amendment of Mr. Ross as inconsistent with the purpose of the bill, which was a peace measure, or processed to be such.

House of Representatives.

Mr. Scofield (Pa), on leave, offered a resolution directing the Secretary of the Treasury to withhold the payment of $1.000,000 for cotton claims under the decision of the Couri of Claims. He said they could be examined by the proper committee at the next session, and if found correct they could be paid under the appropriation bills.

The resolution gave rise to some discussion, participated in by Messrs. Holman, Butler, Dawes, Pruyn, Farnsworth, etc., as d was supped.

The Speak er presented the report of the Board of Managers of the National Asylum for Disaded Volunteer Soldiers. Laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

Managers of the National Asylum for Disarled Volunteer Soldiers. Laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Hubbard (W. Va.) took exceptions to some remarks in reference to West Virginia which appeared in the Globe report of a speech of Mr. Van, Trump a, which speech he understood had not been delivered in the House.

He spoke of West Virginia as a mere political founding, without a drop of constitutional blood in her veins—an litegitimate star in our political constellation, conceived in sin, and born in infiguity of modern Republicanism, etc. He (Mr. Hubbard) defended the birth and position of his State, instanced her loyalty during the war, and declared that she was an honored star in our political constellation, born to loyalty, and dedicated to freedom.

Mr. Van Frump disclaimed any intention of reflecting on the people of West Virginia. He had only discussed the political question as to the process of its organization.

Mr. Keller (Pa.) presented a communication ad-organization,

hr. Kelley (Pa.) presented a communication, addressed to the Thirty-ninth and For-lith Congresses by citizens of Decator, Ala., presenting the thanks of the suffering foor of Northern Alabama for the supplies furnished through General Howard, and that the suffering poor of Northern Alabama for the supplies furnished through General Howard, and that the prospects for a crop were so flattering that they hoped to raise this year an abundance of everything, and to be able to dispense with further bounty. Laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. McClurg (Mo.), Chairman of the Committee on Southern Railroads, offered a resolution authorizing that Committee to proceed by a sub-committee, and explained the necessity for it.

Mr. Brooks (N. Y.) thought the House should put a check upon the expenditures of select committees, He would not, however, make any objection.

The resolution was adopted. The resolution was adopted.

THE TRIAL OF JOHN H. SURRATT.

Washington, July 18—The trial of John H. Surratt was resumed this morning, in the Criminal Court, Judge Fisher presiding.

Rev. L. Rocoffort sworn, and examined by Mr. Merrick—I know Lewis Weichman, and have had conversations with him outside of the contessional.

Q. Did Weichman ever tell you that he was in office in the War Department, and that he was sending information to the Confederates?

Mr. Carrington objected.

Mr. Merrick read Weichman's testimony to show that the latter had said he never gave such information as failuded to above, to Mr. Rocoffort.

Mr. Carrington argued that this testimony could not be given, as it went to a collateral Issue, and it had no bearing upon this issue to show that Weichman had given information to the South. If the object was to prove that Weichman was a complicity.

Mr. Merrick said one object was to show that object was to prove that Welchman was a complicator, lacks must be produced to show the fact of such complicity.

Mr. Merrick said one object was to show that Welchman was an accomplice, and that he had testified merely for his own security. It was a subtial fact, and could be proven, because the testimony of an accomplice alone was not sufficient to secure a conviction.

Mr. Carrington admitted that, and said he never asked a conviction on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplication of the expected to prove that Welchman has teld this winners, now on the stand, that he held his position in the War Department and was using it for the purpose of conveying information to the Rebels. It was certainly admissible to show the feellogs of Welchman on the subject.

The Court said it would be proper if the Confederacy was the principal in the conspiracy.

Mr. Merrick contended that the court had allowed witnesses to be examined as to their sympashiles, are dit was proper to show where Welchman's sympathies were.

The testimony was ruled out by the court.

Rev. J. A. Walter swarn, and examined by Mr. Merrick—I knew Mrs. Surratt, and was here spiritual adviser, I was present at Mrs. Surratt's execution.

The witness was asked whether Mrs. Surratt avowed her innocence to him on the day of execution.

Mr. Pierrepont objected, and the objection sustained, avowed her innocence to him on the day of execution.

Mr. Pierrepont objected, and the objection sustained, and the defense noted an exception.

Q. Did not Payne tell yon on the day he was being led to the execution that Mrs. Surratt was not guilty? Objected to, and objection sustained, and the defense noted an exception.

John G. Reeves sworn, and examined by Mr. Bradley, Jr.—I reside in Montreal, Canada, and am a tailor by occupation; I know the prisoner; I made for him a Garrbaidi coat in 1885; the Garibaidi is a pialted garment, pialted back and front, and has pialt wristbands, and it buttons close up to the throat; I have no doubt that Burratt is the man who bought the coal; after the purchase of this coat I saw Surratt at my store; I saw him before April mole its in measure on the 8th and 18th of April: he afterwards came to see me, and said the coat was too tight, and he wasted me to alter it; I saw Surratt at Father La Pierrest there it was where I first got acqualited with him; I then invited him to my house, and he stayed with me two days.

By Mr. Bradley, Sr.—He stayed at my house two days; about five or six days after I soud him the clothes he cause to my house, and when I went with him about thirteen miles. to Long when I went with him about thirteen miles. to Long a day or two before he went to Europe he was at my not possible for him to have been absent ten or twelve house.

By Mr. Bradley, Sr.—I knew Mr. St. Marte, that By Mr. Bradley, Jr.—I knew Mr. St. Merte, that By Mr. Bradley, Jr.—I knew Mr. St. Merte, that not possible for him to have been absent ten or twelve hours.

By Mr. Bradley, Jr.—I knew Mr. St. Marie, that Is I saw him there bu did not know him personally.

Q. What is his character for truth and versacity?

Air. Carrington objected, as the proper foundation had been laid.

Witness—I saw St. Marie in Montreal, and I know he resided there because I saw him; he was in the bank at Montreal, the Montreal Bank.

By the Court—st. Marie was in a bank there about three years: that was about the years iso and it.e. I am certain of my own knowledge, that M. Marie did live in Montreal.

Mr. Pierreport objected that the proper foundation had not been laid to ask the witness as to St. Marie's character.

Mr. Bradley said he would withdrow the question for the present.
